

BUY vs. RENT

WHICH ONE IS RIGHT FOR YOU?

BOTH RENTING AND HOMEOWNERSHIP HAVE THEIR ADVANTAGES.

The key to knowing whether you should continue to rent—or if you should take the next step and purchase a home—is understanding what makes the most financial sense for your life and lifestyle. Here are some of the most common things to consider when making the decision to buy or rent.

BUY	RENT
FINANCIAL
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Interest paid on both your mortgage and property are tax deductible. When you're making mortgage payments, you're building equity in your home. At some point, this equity could be used for a Home Equity Loan or Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC). Ultimately, any home improvements that lead to an increase in property value will go right back into your pocket when you sell your home. You can tailor your mortgage to fit your financial needs. Choose your term: 30-year, 15-year, ARM, interest-only. There are many different options to help make homeownership affordable. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Rent is not tax deductible. Renting does not build equity; thus you have no security when you take out a loan. When your lease ends, you walk away no richer, no poorer. There is no profit to be gained. Rent cannot be customized, refinanced or even locked in. Your rent can change year to year.
QUALITY OF LIFE
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A Home Equity Loan could potentially pay for your child's college education or allow you to make other important purchases for your family. Your home is your castle and as a homeowner, you can truly make it your own. Choose your paint colors, appliances, flooring, and more. Adopt a pet or two! Your pets will have their own yard space to play in. Try your hand at gardening. Add a deck or patio. Customize the way your yard is landscaped. Buy a home with a basement for extra storage or a play area for the kids. Finally park your car(s) in the safety of your own garage. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Paying rent to your landlord doesn't build your bank account, it builds theirs. When renting, you're very limited as to what you can do with the space. Remember, it's not yours. Pets are often unwelcome in apartments or rental homes. Even if they are allowed, their room to play outdoors may be limited. Nurture your potted plant collection. Renters are lucky to get an extra closet for storage and sometimes have to pay for extra space. When renting, you're lucky if you're allotted a parking space. Covered parking? A luxury.
